

From:
Professor Geddes MacGregor

27 August 1988

876 Victoria Avenue
Los Angeles, Ca 90005
(213) 938-4826

Dear Jose,

This note is just to thank you for all your kindness, so you need not do anything with it while you are so busy. I know well how swamped one is after a few weeks away with mail piling up.

Under separate cover I have sent you this morning a copy of my APOSTLES by "book mail." I hope you will enjoy it later on when you have time for it.

I have sent you also two small "items" (1), one a squib of my own in a new journal that wanted a light piece from me, the other one that may be familiar to you: the British title-page of Russell's MEANING AND NATURE OF TRUTH. I think it never was used in the U.S. edition, only in the British. You have probably seen it long ago but it just occurred to me that it might have escaped you. I refer to it in the APOSTLES.

I notice that you nowadays often just drop the MORA in your name, no doubt in despair of ever getting librarians to catalogue you properly. I thought of this some time ago when a colleague told me that, when working on some patristics problem, he found a listing of a French book on Clement of Alexandria: "D'Alexandrie, Clément" !

With all kind remembrances and every good wish,

