

CANISIUS COLLEGE
DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY

22 November 1986

Dear Prof. Ferrater Mora,

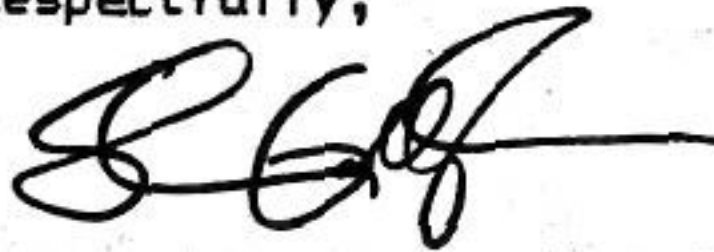

May I extend to you congratulations on receiving Spain's Prince of Austrias Prize in Communication and Humanities, on completing your third novel, on the offer of the "King Juan Carlos Professorship" at NYU, and on all of your other achievements that I have not been able to keep up with since I last saw you. It must be several years, but George Kline has kept me updated about your extraordinary accomplishments. I hope this letter finds you in good health and happy.

A brief update on me: I am tenured, associate professor, at Canisius College (a Jesuit institution) in Buffalo. I married Elaine DeBenedictis (Bryn Mawr Ph.D., Art History) and we have our first child, Laura. I have published several articles and am working on a book on hermeneutics and education. The enclosed offprint (the occasion for this brief note) is from the dissertation that you helped to direct (see footnote of acknowledgement on first page). Another part of the dissertation will appear shortly and I will send you a copy.

Writing to you now reminds me that I should check through the bibliography in Transparencies to see what you have written about education and/or hermeneutics.

My best regards.

Respectfully,
