

THE NEW YORKER

No. 25 WEST 43RD STREET
NEW YORK, N. Y. 10036

EDITORIAL OFFICES
OXFORD 1-1474

April 26, Saturday

Dear Jose,

I didn't call you before I left Bryn Mawr, because I left before six in the morning.

Now I am going away for eight days, nine really. I will call when I get back, at some civilized hour.

It was really wonderful to see you. I have thought of you and missed you in all these years. I believe I am the only one who has gotten so much older. I look forward very much to seeing you again.

love,

Lenora