Dear José:

Thank you very much for your letter of 14 August, which I just found on my return from a month in Guatemala. You are a tremendous and prolific writer. I am really amazed at the amount of works you produce. And when I think of your Diccionario I am even more amazed. It is a tremendous feat of mastery of ideas and conceptual systems, thoroughly impressive, and yet you go on to add a huge mass of biographical detail!

I am very grateful for and flattered by your interest in my work. Enclosed are some materials which may interest you in this connection. I assume that you don't need right away the two or three pages of autobiography that you mention in your letter, thus I will send them later on. I am partly interested in writing those pages, as a matter of fact, because in the last three years the different strands of <sup>my</sup> investigation have converged rather nicely. Some of this convergence is indicated at some places in Thinking and Doing. And right now I am trying to put some other thoughts down on paper as part of the project I promised NEH to carry out this academic year. If there is any items in the bibliography that you are interested in, I would be very happy to send them. I also would like very much to receive copies of your recent publications.

With very best wishes,

Cordially,

Hector-Neri Castañeda
