Professor José Ferrater Mora
Department of Philosophy
Bryn Mawr College
Bryn Mawr, Pa.

Dear Professor Ferrater Mora:

We are trying to arrange a philosophy colloquium for October 16 or 17, 1963, and would like very much to have you as our speaker. We would want a strenuous program somewhat as follows: 4:30, meeting with our staff informally; 6:00, dinner with students and staff; 8:00, public lecture (your choice of subject--we would enjoy something on "Philosophy Today" similar to your presentation at Princeton a few years ago). The honorarium is $100.

We hope that if you can accept our invitation you will stay overnight at McKelvy House, the center of our honors program, whose director is John Losee of our staff. And we would be delighted if you could talk informally with one of our classes the next morning and lunch with us. But this would depend on your convenience. If October 16 or 17 are not suitable and a later date would be possible, please let us know. I do hope we can find a mutually satisfactory time.

Sincerely yours,

George A. Clark
