

January 4, 1965

Dear Mr. Ferrater Mora,

There were 175 people registered at the Pacific Division meetings of the APA in San Francisco; as you can imagine, then, I had a better time than you did in New York. I even went to two papers.

I did have one interview at these meetings. Perhaps it will amount to something. It was with the Chairman of the Humanities Division, as they call it, of a Colorado college for women. The Chairman herself is in philosophy (a one-time student of Cassirer's, but I gather that far from being an historian of philosophy she is rather a "consultant" in "communications"--this in her spare time). Anyway, we had a rather a pleasant conversation, and I gained the impression that the college would not be a bad place to go to. Salaries there are high--if I were to go, I'd go at $9,000 or more. She talked with the Acting Department Chairman here at S. F. S. C. about me and, as well, with my friend Arthur Cody. If they turn out to be seriously interested in me, I'll be invited to the College for an interview (at their expense). Incidentally, if they are interested in me, they'll doubtless write to you asking for a letter or else to me asking that I write to you (and the other people on my list).

I was glad of the holidays, but I had a huge number of papers to mark over them and many letters of one sort or another to write. Therefore, the holidays were not really a time of rest for me anymore than they were for you. But at least I am not rewriting 20 per cent of ~~anything~~ what I've written before! Congratulations on the "Selected Works", and I hope you last through the month.

Sincerely,

Juli