Dear Mr. Ferrater Mora:

I am enclosing a copy of Ortega's essay " Sobre el estilo filosófico" which I have translated into English along with four other essays on his views on techniques and dwelling. This essay has given me some problems with the translations of some idiomatic expressions and philosophical concepts, but my major interest is to verify if the translation "allows Ortega to come through".

In translating I have preferred to preserve the wording and style of Ortega rather to re-interpret in English his thoughts. This causes, sometimes, that the English sounds clumsy. Nevertheless, I am of the opinion that this is preferable to changing the spirit, if you will, of his written and spoken words.

I will deeply appreciate your commentaries and corrections, I am most grateful. My telephone number is 356-6983 and I am looking forward to meet with you.

Sincerely,

Enrique Vivoni
