Dear Mr. Ferrater,

I was delighted to have your letter from Barcelona, but what a lot of writing, translating and proofreading you have taken with you! Perhaps even the brief visit to the "Centro" was a little break for you - I hope not so warm as July 14 was here.

I am taking weekends at the camp, doing all sorts of summer work at the College during the week. One of my summer questions has to do with library offices, and on that subject I am wondering whether you would want to move to the office Martha Diez has had. I am trying to get a slightly larger office for Jean Potter but if you wanted to move to Mrs. Diez' office I should then offer Jean yours. Please send me just a postcard to say what your preference is.

I called to ask Milton about one slight change in the catalogue. While I was talking with him I asked how he was feeling and whether he was at the College from time to time. He said that he was and that he would stop in to see me but he has not yet come by.

I hope that Jaime is now a more regular correspondent than he was earlier in the summer.

Best wishes to you all,

Sincerely,

24-VII-65,

P.S. Dee tells me that Jaime is here. He is having dinner with her tonight. She will write you as soon as she can.
