Dear Mr. Ferrater Mora,

I had delayed in writing a formal thank you letter to you, not because I needed time to think of something nice to say about your lecture, but rather because I had planned to see you to invite you to a follow-up discussion which we were planning to have, but which did not materialize.

I do want to thank you, however, on behalf of the Interfaith Association, for a splendid evening. The turnout, as you saw, was excellent, and I'm sure that no one who came was disappointed. Marcel's philosophy may be lacking somewhat in depth, but the issues
