

In nomine domini Amen. In hac parte... (The text continues with a dense Latin manuscript script, detailing legal proceedings and ecclesiastical matters. It includes names like 'Clemente Pontifici Maximo', 'Clemente Pontifici', 'Clemente Pontifici', and 'Clemente Pontifici'. The text discusses various legal actions, appeals, and judgments, often starting with 'Clemente Pontifici Maximo' or 'Clemente Pontifici'. There are also references to 'Clemente Pontifici Maximo' and 'Clemente Pontifici'. The text is written in a formal, medieval Latin style, with some parts appearing to be a list or inventory of documents or cases. The script is dense and somewhat difficult to read due to the cursive style of the time.)

Hic Cullma... (This section appears to be a specific entry or a summary of a case. It begins with 'Hic Cullma' and continues with a Latin description. Below this, there is a large, decorative initial 'C' followed by more text: 'Clemente Pontifici Maximo...'. This part of the document seems to contain a formal declaration or judgment, possibly related to the legal proceedings mentioned in the main text. The text is written in a similar medieval Latin style to the rest of the page.)

#2

Convent

Handwritten text, possibly a name or address, written in a cursive script.

654

Vertical handwritten text on the left edge of the paper.