

THE UNIVERSITY OF NEW MEXICO
ALBUQUERQUE

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY

May 26, 1962

Prof. Jose M. Ferrater Mora
Department of Philosophy
Bryn Mawr College
Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania

Dear Professor Mora:

I promised to send you some further materials pertaining to "Organicism" when I left you at the Santa Barbara meeting of the International Institute of Philosophy.

I have been slow about it, but at last here it is. I hope it is not too late for whatever use you may have planned to make of it in connection with revision of your Dictionary of Philosophy.

I have just sent about more than 3000 reprints of both my "Polarity: A Descriptive Hypothesis" and my "What is Self? The Organicist Answer" to persons listed in my new Directory of American Philosophers.

Sincerely yours,

Prof. Archie J. Bahm
Department of Philosophy
University of New Mexico
Albuquerque, New Mexico

P.s. It just occurred to me that whoever is publishing your revised Dictionary of Philosophy may be interested in an up-to-date list of teachers of philosophy in the U.S. and others trained in philosophy. So I enclose a sheet, "Dear Publisher," which you may wish to send on to him.

P.s. I shall be in Banaras Hindu University next year as Fulbright Research Scholar in the History of Indian Philosophy.

1-VI-62

000050

A Beginning Bibliography on ORGANICISM

Works by Archie J. Bahm

Articles

- "Freedom is Fitness," The Scientific Monthly, August, 1946, pp. 135-136.
- "Organic Unity and Emergency," The Journal of Philosophy, April 24, 1947, pp. 241-244.
- "Emergence of Purpose," The Journal of Philosophy, Nov. 6, 1947, pp. 633-636.
- "Emergence of Value," The Journal of Philosophy, July 15, 1948, pp. 411-414.
- "Existence," Library of the Tenth International Congress of Philosophy, Volume I, August, 1948, pp. 353-354.
- "Organic Unity and God," Illiff Review, Autumn, 1948, pp. 93-102.
- "Existence and Its Polarities," The Journal of Philosophy, Sept. 29, 1949, pp. 629-637.
- "Spiritualism Materialism, and Organicism," The Philosophical Quarterly, October, 1950, and January 1951, pp. 105-108.
- "Organicism's Nine Types of Philosophy," Proceedings of the Eleventh International Congress of Philosophy, Vol. III, 1953, pp. 52-56.
- "Evolutionary Naturalism," Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, Sept. 1954, pp. 1-12.
- "The Organicist Argument for Inference Beyond Experience," The Review of Metaphysics, December 1957, pp. 337-341.
- "Organitic Dialectic," Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, June, 1958, pp. 541-543.
- "The New Philosophy Names Its Enemies," The New Mexico Quarterly, Summer, 1959, pp. 223-234.
- "Matter and Spirit: Implications of the Organicist View," Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, Sept., 1959, pp. 103-108.
- "Polarity: A Descriptive Hypothesis," Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, March, 1961, Vol. XXI, No. 3, pp. 347-360.
- "Meanings of Negation," Philosophy and Phenomenological Research, December, 1961, pp. 179-184.
- "What is Self? The Organicist Answer," Darshana, An International Quarterly, January, 1962, pp. 9-35.

Chapter

- "Organicism," in Philosophy. An Introduction, Ch. 20. John Wiley and Sons, N.Y., 1953. See Also p. 439 for reference to additional sections on various Organicistic doctrines.

Monograph

Types of Intuition, University of New Mexico Press, 1961.

* * * *

See Also Frank C. Wegener, The Organic Theory of Education, Wm. C. Brown Co., Dubuque, 1957.

000051