Dear Professor Ferrater Mora,

Two days ago the magnificent third edition of your Diccionario de la Filosofía reached me, in perfect condition. I have spent many hours poring over its pages. You have done a marvelous piece of revising; the book is not only more than twice its previous size, but it is amazingly thorough, the bibliographies are remarkable, and every article that I have tested is not only longer but better, showing the growth of your own mind in grasp and insight. Here and there I might differ in evaluation, but I have found nothing that could be called an error.

You deserve heart-felt congratulations for your contribution to scholarship. I am deeply grateful to you for your thoughtfulness in sending me the great work. I have, of course, written my appreciation to the Editorial Susamericana S.A.

Even the blasé philosophers of the United States should give this work their close attention.

With grateful appreciation, I remain

Yours most cordially,

27-X-51.
