Dear Professor Vicens Vives,

May I refer to my letter to you of 3 June 1957. I have just returned from three months in the United States and was wondering when it would be convenient for you to visit us in Oxford. We are very much looking forward to welcoming you here.

It occurs to me that it may be a little late to make satisfactory arrangements for your two lectures during the course of the present term which ends on 14 March. I am therefore writing to you to suggest that if it would fit in with your plans, you might like to arrive in Oxford for the first week of next term, beginning on Monday 28 April. I would then propose that you lectured on Tuesday 29 April and Thursday 1 May.

If you would prefer to come later in the term we would be glad to make any arrangements which you suggest.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

F. Deakin
