Dear Mr. Ferrater Mora,

In view of the fact that sickness is a mortal sin, I am doing my best to recover from everything. Including my apprehension of the old-fashioned
state of existence that most of us seem to be in. Anyway, the sinner difficulties are

moment is that I'm invited to pick it!
I sincerely wish
much less well, though at the cost of time,
energy, and, as you
guessed, a good deal
of money.
I am pleased to hear that you are working, and I hope you will be able to tell me soon that I've succeeded in doing a little

the nicest thing I've grown in myself.
But the weather
No, your mail concerns
are no trouble to me.
Give the matter no thought. I hope the book arrived safely.

← I didn't enclose a note 8-VIII-62 with it merely because I happened that day to be tending to a number of small matters.
