Dear Mr. Ferrater Mora,

Unpacking my books, I soon came across your volume of Bayle, which I return to you now. I think you'll find it in good condition, I'm only sorry you had to be concerned about where it had [il-legible] to.

I'm moved in to a new address, settled and ready this morning to set down to my typewriter to see if it knows any philosophy.
Sincerely,
[Signatura]
