

FAIRFIELD UNIVERSITY
FAIRFIELD, CONNECTICUT

DEPARTMENT OF PHILOSOPHY

March 25, 1967

Dear Mr. Ferrater Mora,

I decided that I could not come down to Bryn Mawr during my spring holidays after all. I find myself very tired and overwhelmed with small responsibilities that I must attend to during these holidays. So I shall not be seeing you until later, probably not until June, after I have marked my final examinations.

They are making additional appointments here of non-Catholics. For my part, however, I continue to enjoy talking about philosophy with two or three of the Jesuits in my Department.

I shall be interested to learn whether or not Troutman accepts Bryn Mawr's offer to him (when it becomes formally made to him). I have not heard from him since he wrote me in great happiness in consequence of having received your note.

Sincerely,

Juli —