Dear Mr. Ferrater Mora,

I thought I'd write to let you know that we saw your movie the other night. However, we had to get home by a certain time, and didn't get a chance to say hello, or whatever. We both liked the movie quite a bit. I thought it structurally more complex, or perhaps only, smoother than earlier movies, and Cathie felt that was because the content was presented more engagingly.

Also, we thought the ending emotionally involving, even despite the fact that it wasn't, until the end, all that involved with the two major characters.

At any rate, we were happy to see another of your movies, and we thank you for having invited us.
