Dear Professor José Ferrater Mora,

A few days ago the editor of Diálogos returned my MS "Disolviendo el argumento del sueño" saying he would be interested in publishing it if it was edited. He corrected the first ten lines to give an idea of what he had in mind. My wife, a Catalan and non-philosopher, feels that her Spanish has become rather rusty and anglicized after living many years in this country.

I would be delighted if you would be kind enough to edit the remainder of the piece for me. Naturally I would like to pay you for it; just give me an idea what you think is reasonable. As a philosopher, an authority on Wittgenstein, a native Spaniard, and a bilingual, you are ideally qualified. I cannot find anyone here who I would trust with the task as much as you.

If you are too busy or unwilling, I can well understand. I would appreciate it, however, if you would return the Spanish and English versions of the article in the stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I hope you are having a good year. Please give my warmest regards to my uncle Hans Bänziger, who is in the German Department.

With all best wishes.

Sincerely,

Ronald Suter
Professor
