Dear Professor Nozick:

My sincere apologies for the delay in answering your letter of April 6. The last weeks of the spring term leave little time for anything except exams and committee meetings.

Thank you very much for your kind and generous words. You may be wrong (although I hope not completely) in your evaluation of my academic work, but you are certainly right in assuming that I have never aimed at contributing a few more grains of sand to a tottering sand-castle. With some more leisure time, I intend to pursue my philosophical and critical explorations.

Indeed, I remember well the week I spent at Queens, as well as our conversation before driving to Manhattan. I very much wish we could meet again for a further conversation.

Best wishes,

Sincerely

J. Ferrater Mora
