Dear Dr. Mora:

I have just heard from George Kline by telephone the marvelous news that you will be able to address our undergraduate Philosophy Club, November 21, on the topic "Existentialism". This year we are attempting to do a series of lectures in Philosophy Club under the general rubric, Philosophy and the Predicament of Modern Man. We are attempting to gain speakers who will explore for us in turn the major alternatives among which our choice is to be made. I think in the local situation the topic "Existentialism" will turn out to have considerable importance in the series; for this reason we are particularly delighted that you are willing to discuss this topic. I do want to assure you that in our context it is perfectly appropriate to present your address from informal notes; our first speaker, Bernard Phillips, speaking on "Zen Buddhism", simply talked out his theme for something like 40 to 50 minutes. ~~In~~ That manner presentation turned out to be well adapted to the situation.

As for the means of reaching Newark, may I write about this at a later time? I would like first, to have a chance to compare notes with one of my associates here in Philosophy who lives in Philadelphia. For now let me express to you my appreciation for your willingness to appear before our Philosophy Club.

Sincerely yours,

William L. Reese
