

Dear José,

Thank you very much for the happy time at Byrn Mawr, Aaron [il·legible] Headquarters, and about town. I enjoyed every minute. I am sorry there wasn't time to see some of your new photographic prints. The ones I have seen are extraordinarily appealing.

I took the Paoli Local to Penn Center and it was a much more convenient stop. I was so used to changing trains at 30th St that I had forgotten about it, but I knew (almost) exactly where I was when I arrived. I met H.K. walking back to the hotel and we had a safe trip home. Life has been a bit hectic since. Finally the exams are all graded and now I have every day affaires plus Xmas to get in order. We are leaving this Thursday for a week seeing in [il·legible] in the South.

Thank you very much for "On Practice". As I remember, we barely had a chance to say goodbye at the station. I hope that means we will see each other again soon. Do you think it does? I have decided that it does.

Happy '77!

Devotedly ,
