Dear Kathleen,

Sorry I could not see you in Philadelphia during the meetings. I had planned to go, if only for a few hours, but I caught a cold, and had to stay home.

Even sorer to learn that your promotion was not recommended by the dean. Do not trust anyone who can't spell! I hope that you will be reconsidered, and above all recommended for next year, and that justice will prevail over bad spelling.

Everything here as usual, as far as I can judge. I spent some time in France, Spain, and Mexico, and plan to go back to Europe for a couple of months next May. I've been writing quite steadily: it's the cheapest thing you can do nowadays.

Most cordially,
